

YSHCC Board Director

Experience, Education & Service

As the Executive Director of a five-county area, Quinn is responsible for making sure large hospitals, and solo, small, medium and large practice physicians are provided with practice management assistance, economic services, legislative advocacy and much more. He is passionate about public health education programs in a physician led environment.

He has focused on Health Education and advocating for physicians and their patients with the YSC & PNC Medical Societies and the YSHC Foundation have been for that last 10 years. Prior to that Quinn was in a director position for organizations such as Sacramento Job Corps and the Sacramento Regional Conservation Corps educating and teaching employability skills to youth and young adults 16-26 years of age.

Local to the greater Sacramento Region, Quinn has been in the non-profit world for 30 years and has served on the board of many organizations from youth sports to opioid safety, childhood trauma and mental health programs.

He played professional baseball after a college baseball career and still coaches high school aged players.
